

A New Prescription for the NHS?
NHS Support Federation public debate and AGM

Can Gordon Brown solve the problems of the NHS once and for all?

As Prime Minister he will confront a service in the midst of major reform, much of which is controversial and lacks any evidence to say that it will work. So what are the alternatives for the NHS? We are all crying out for a lasting solution.

What is working and which policies should be scrapped?

How can we make the most of the strengths of our NHS?

Are we heading in the right direction, and what can we learn from other countries?
