Join us in the campaign against the possible health cuts at St Peters &
Royal Surrey Hospitals

NHS Together is the alliance of all the health service unions and staff associations (RCN, RCM, CSP etc) together on a national and local basis.

It's a campaigning alliance to raise the alarm at what is happening to the NHS and to press the government and health employers for honest and open discussion about the reform agenda.

The NHS has been getting better thanks to increased spending and the dedication and commitment of NHS workers to new ways of working. But progress is under threat:

Health trust deficits are causing cuts in patient care and staff jobs. NHS staff support reform that delivers better patient care, but that has been replaced by untested rapid changes with no staff involvement.

NHS Together (North & West Surrey) is a local alliance of trade unions and members of the community campaigning to defend NHS services at the St Peters Hospital & Royal Surrey County Hospital in Guildford.

Under the so called "fit for the future" consultation process your services including A&E may be under threat.

Q: What can you do about it?

A: Protest, take part in the fight against this madness!
