QE2 HOSPITAL CLOSURE IMMINENT

The case can not possibly be overstated and the gravity of the situation facing the Staff and the Hospital has to be stressed emphatically for us the public to realize what exactly is at stake.

We have to dismiss from our minds any considerations of pie in the sky promises of space age health care provisions and utopian Super Hospitals, visions based on quicksand that will help the NHS vanish from sight.

Instead we have to look at what we have left of a national health service especially what is being done to it in the name of 'Progress'. The NHS is a national asset and its being stripped bare by profiteers, both at a national local level.

The people running our local health service provisions into the ground the Hertfordshire Primary Care Trusts, both the East and North and West Herts have a great deal to answer for. If we are to believe half the information emanating from the Trusts they are either financially incompetent or folks not to be trusted in marketing second hand cars. Given the way they deal with workers in the health services they exhibit all the finesse of the spiv.

The QE2 is being demolished under our nose while the staff is being browbeaten into compliance Unison can only do so much on the inside.

What the QE2 its Staff and Unison need is for us the public to really give a monkeys whether we have a local hospital, and to realize we really can make that difference.
